This lecture series is a collaborative weekly event organised by departments of Social and Cultural Anthropology (Ethnologie) in Germany, Austria and Switzerland. Each session is curated by a different department / institute and features talks, discussion rounds as well as a film screening.

The lecture series will run throughout the German winter term (26 Oct 2023 – 1 Feb 2024) on Thursdays, 6–8pm CET, on Webex. It will continue in the summer term 2024 with more talks and presentations.

The film “Measures of Men” (D 2023, 116’, German with English subtitles) will be made available via a screening link during approx. two weeks prior to a Q&A/podium discussion with the director Lars Kraume and other speakers on 9 November 2023.

The lecture series will be accompanied by a boasblog, hosting contributions by the presenters:

<https://boasblogs.org/decolonizinganthropology/>

The blog will be launched in the beginning of November 2023. The blog posts will be in the language of the talk; some in English, some in German. Each presenter will publish a blog post on boasblogs a week ahead of the talk. The blog post will consist of a short version of the most relevant points of the presentation, two accompanying text references, discussion questions or tasks as well as the bio of the presenter(s). After the session, we will additionally upload the recording of the session (subject to the presenters’ consent).

At the ISEK–Social Anthropology, our contact person for this lecture series is Juliane Neuhaus. She has set up an OLAT course to facilitate access to presentations and referenced texts (in pdf).

Please register with juliane.neuhaus@uzh.ch if you wish to get access.
